

Halal Suitable* List – June 2026

*Please note that none of the Musashi products are certified halal, however, when we receive raw material information from our ingredient suppliers, this may include a halal certificate for each individual ingredient, or the supplier might state that the ingredient is 'halal suitable', meaning they consider the raw material to be suitable for a halal diet, or that it does not contain anything that is non-halal.

Because we do not certify our products (due to the extra expense it would add to the cost of the products), we can only say it is halal suitable based on the combined information from our suppliers. Some of our products may contain ingredients such as amino acids or gelatin that are derived from animal products. If we have not received a halal certificate for these ingredients – we would state these ingredients are not halal suitable.
